PUBLIC SCHOOL NOW HAS SALES COURSE

Science of Selling Taught at Thomson Building Monday Nights.

The science of salesmanship is now being taught in evening classes at the Thomson Public School Building.

Modern business houses today are recognizing that there is a science of salesmanship and they are taking steps to have their salesmen and saleswomen instructed in this science.

One of the large department stores of the city recently created the office of educational director in its establishment. The duty of which office will be to train its salesmen and saleswomen in the science of selling.

To meet this need of training the Board of Education, on recommendation of the superintendent of schools, has selected from its corps of high school instructors two whom it thinks best fitted at this time to introduce into the public school curriculum courses in the science of salesmanship.

These new courses in salesmanship are being given every Monday evening at the Thomson Night School, Twelfth and L streets northwest, from 7:30 to 9:30 o'clock.

The course in retail counter selling is under direction of one of the high school teachers, who has made a special study of this new phase of vocational direction.

The work in outside salesmanship is being presented by a young man who has had actual sales experience with such corporations as the Ford Motor Company, which until recently maintained one of the largest and most highly trained selling organizations in the United States.

HOUSEWIVES DECLARE WAR ON HIGH PRICES

Alliance to Establish Neighborhood Markets in School Buildings.

War against high prices has been declared by the Housewives' Alliance, under whose auspices a mass meeting of Washington housewives will be held next Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the Theodore Bailey Myers Mason House, 1200 Twelfth street.

It is planned to form a series of community groups of housewives who will meet regularly to devise ways of effecting household economies; to obtain the use of school buildings for these meetings; and to establish neighborhood markets in the schools, the children to deliver food supplies to their own families.

Mrs. Flora McDonald Thompson, who will present the plan to the mass meeting, has just returned from New York, where she conferred with the president of the Housewives' League of that city and made an extensive study of methods now being employed by organized housewives to combat the high cost of living.

"We feel that boycotts on any one product are ineffective," Mrs. Thompson said. "First we wish to eliminate waste. Then we wish to teach housewives to buy by value, not by price alone, and thus we shall effect an automatic boycott on any products which sell for prices out of proportion to their value."

"The platform of the Housewives' Alliance this winter will be to extend to organized housewives a general fund of information which will make them an economic force that will control markets in the interest of the home."

TRADE WAR NOT DUE FOR LONG, LONG TIME

World Struggle Will Not Come Until Long After Peace Is Declared.

The much-discussed after-the-war commercial competition from Europe will not likely come for some time after the conclusion of peace, according to an opinion expressed by the Federal Trade Commission yesterday in reviewing foreign trade conditions.

The commission points out that the high cost of materials, increased taxes, probable higher wages, and the capital and stocks of materials necessary to repair the wreckage of war will delay the full power of European competition until it regains its normal state.

Laws to put the American exporter on a footing with his foreign rival by authorization of collective foreign selling agencies, are recommended by the commission.

It is apparent, the report sets forth, that this country's organization for export trade must be strengthened if its manufacturers and producers are to compete on more nearly equal terms in the world's commerce.

The commission believes that competition from foreign industrial combinations, aided by foreign ship lines and foreign banks, and backed by foreign governments, may be sharper after the war than it was before.

The commission further believes that the advantages to be gained by effective co-operation in foreign markets need not entail any sacrifice of the firmly established policy of this country in regard to the maintenance of fair competitive conditions and the prohibition of monopolistic control within the United States.

JOLTED FOR 54 MILES ON SUFFRAGE MISSION

Virginia Women Show Mettle Seeking Watson's Support.

A deputation of Virginia women, members of the Congressional Union for Woman Suffrage, rode 54 miles in an automobile over rough country roads to aid Representative Walter A. Watson to vote for the Federal amendment.

It was dark when the party reached the Representative's home. He had just returned from a hunting trip, but with true Southern hospitality invited them in, threw more logs on the big wood fire and then they all discussed the Federal amendment issue.

While Representative Watson did not declare himself in favor of the Federal suffrage amendment, he said that the coming of suffrage was only a question of time and that in 1910 no Presidential candidate would dare oppose it.

Included in the delegation were Miss Mary Caldwell, Miss Harriett Thomas, of Petersburg; Mrs. Perry Read and Miss J. V. Jennings, of Richmond.

The same spirit that they showed on this occasion, it was asserted at Congressional Union headquarters yesterday, is being shown in all the work now going on in all the various States in favor of Federal suffrage. Numerous State conventions are being held, delegations have been called on members of Congress, and systematic plans for raising funds to carry on the work are being made in many States.
